

TWENTY-SECOND YEAR—NUMBER 219.

ON COMMON GROUND

The Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America.

IT KNOWS NO SECT, NO CREED

All invited to join to Aid the Temperance Cause—Foreigners in China Will Defend Themselves.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—At today's meeting of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America, the committee on resolutions presented, wherein it was resolved that in their efforts to overcome the evils of drink, on the lines laid down by the Baltimore Catholic congress, there was no race, no creed, no color, no national distinction in this common struggle, but also a common hope against a common foe. Catholic women were announced to initiate the Women's Christian Temperance Union and co-operate with it. The resolutions declare that a sound public policy does not seek to sanction the sale of liquor at the World's fair, nor does it require the existence of a traffic privileged to wreck homes, breaking hearts and grinding down souls into the mire of wretchedness and woe. The following resolutions were adopted after a lengthy debate:

"That we consider it the duty of all temperance men to support candidates for public office who honestly pledge themselves to labor for the enforcement of the Sunday laws, and the closing of liquor saloons on that day. That we deem it the manifest duty of every temperance man to discountenance any candidate for public office who declares himself, or is known to be committed to the support of the liquor interest."

The sentiment of the convention seemed to be against legislative prohibition, but it was not deemed expedient to so declare in the resolutions. Indianapolis was selected as the place of the next convention. Bishop Cotter, of Minnesota, was re-elected president.

In the House of Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—In the commons yesterday notice was given that at the next session a resolution would be introduced in favor of the conclusion of a treaty between England and the United States in which the two nations will agree to submit to arbitration all differences.

Foreigners in China Will Defend Themselves.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A letter from an American gentleman at Hankow, dated June 23, says: "At present we have two gunboats here. There are at all points below here from two to three gunboats of different nations, so that for the present the matter is quiet in Yangtze river valley. With the withdrawal of the gunboats, I think, unless there is a radical change, there will be trouble up and down the river. We have organized a defense committee here, put arms in the hands of all members of the community and are pretty well prepared for any trouble that may arise. We can muster over a hundred breech-loading guns and most of the men are experts in using them. We have a commander-in-chief, our collector of customs, who is an old soldier, and two division commanders, a Russian and myself. We have signals arranged to alarm the community in case of a rising against us and have two rendezvous on the river front to which all women and children will be taken in case of attack. The Chinese will be guarded or placed on steamers should there be any in the port. When the women and children are safely disposed of, the men will defend the settlement. We will make it hot for any mob that comes our way, and don't make any mistake about it."

George of Greece in Disgrace in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 6.—A letter which recently appeared in the Berlingske Tidende of Copenhagen, in which Prince George, of Greece, gave a detailed account of the attack made on the Oranienburg by a Japanese policeman, has greatly altered the estimates which, at first were formed here of the prince's action upon that occasion and has been the means of placing him in a different light in this city. The reason for the altered feeling entertained for the prince is the fact that he is said to have been the owner of the attack upon the Oranienburg without previously submitting the manuscript for revision. It is considered here the story told by Prince George emphasizes certain remarks of the Oranienburg which had been made in a running away when he was attacked. Particular offense is taken at the statement in the prince's published letter that after the Oranienburg had been struck and while he was endeavoring to make his escape from his assailant he tumbled to the ground through sheer fright.

Trumbull Answers the Libel on the Itala.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 6.—Richard L. Trumbull today filed an answer to the libel on the arms and ammunition seized on the steamer Itala. Trumbull says he is owner in trust of the arms and ammunition, and that no one else has anything to do with them. Judge Ross is absent on his vacation, but on his return an effort will be made to at once push the litigation to a conclusion.

Sudden Death of a Young Lady.

KATYVILLE, Cal., Aug. 6.—[Special telegram to THE HERALD.]—Miss Cora D. Hope, of Searsville, Cal., has been visiting friends in Katyville for about a week. At about 10 o'clock this morning while in the garden, she complained of feeling overheat and started for the house. That was the last seen of her until nearly 12 o'clock when she was found near the house, where she had fallen in an epileptic fit. Dr. Ingram was summoned and restoratives were administered, but these were of no avail as the vital spark had fled. Coroner Rose summoned a jury and held an inquest this afternoon. A verdict was rendered in accordance with the above facts. Deceased was 31 years of age. Her parents, who reside at Salmon City, were immediately telegraphed news of the sad event, but no answer has yet been received.

H. M. Stanley's Parents.

[Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.] PITTSBURGH, Aug. 6.—The Dispatch this morning publishes a two-column interview with the father of Henry M. Stanley. If the records in the Western Mail and Hibbs are authentic, the story throws light on the early history and origin of the explorer. Watkin James is the step-father. He is a Welshman, sixty-three years old, living in Homestead with his fourth wife, Mrs. James, who was a very clever seamstress in 1879. When asked why he did not write to Mr. Stanley to tell him who he was, he replied that Stanley was a great man, and he was afraid to write to him. "Mr. Stanley's correct name," said Mr. James, "is Henry Rowlands. His mother was Eleanor Jones; his father was Jacob Rowlands. Both were born in Port Kees, near Newcastle, England. Jacob Rowlands, a South Wales, Henry was born in the same town, and is now between forty-nine and fifty years old. Stanley's father was a bookbinder by trade, and a very clever one, but a good-for-nothing man. When Stanley came to know all about him he had little respect for him. Stanley's mother, who was a very clever seamstress, was intensely religious woman. Jacob Rowlands was not a good husband, and when Henry was about four years old his parents separated. Stanley's mother was a very good mother, and when Henry was about four years old his parents separated. A VERY BAD WRECK

A Passenger Train on the West Shore Runs Into a Freight.

NEARLY TWENTY PEOPLE KILLED

The Blame Not Located—The Conductor's Story—Account of a Passenger Who Escaped—The Dead and Injured.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 6.—This morning a freight train on the West Shore railroad going west, broke in two between Port Byron and Montezuma and a fast train following smashed into the rear. A brakeman who went back toward the engine to Niagara Falls in the morning car, was killed and seventeen others in the same car injured. Some of them will probably die. The sleeping cars were burned and it is supposed nearly all the passengers were badly hurt. The injured were brought here and are being cared for. The bodies of the killed are at Port Byron, where the coroner will hold an inquest. Among the injured was a member of an opera company, who died on his way here. The train was killed in the wreck. Physicians and others sent from Syracuse, Auburn, Montezuma and Port Byron to the scene at the wreck say it is a terrible one.
